It was interesting to us to notice that of the 23 8 were children in the schools; 5 were parents of these children, and probably began their interest through the influence of the schools. Of the entire 24 10 were men, and it has been gratifying to see a marked increase in the attendance of men of the better class. The inquirers classes, of which there were several, were held weekly. Those for men were taught by Mr. Lee; those for women and children by Mrs. Lee and Miss Quinby. Besides these classes Miss Scott had a Bible class for women who are members of the church, and Mr. Lee had a class for men also for Bible study and for studying the problems of personal...
